Elevator Pitch

We collect used cooking oil, select it, filter it, and transform it into multi-purpose soaps through a chemical process called saponification. With the aim of mitigating the alarming problem of water pollution generated by this waste that comes from households and restaurants.

Climate Problem

With the aim of mitigating the alarming problem of water pollution generated by this waste that comes from households and restaurants. We recover the used cooking oil and transform it into multi-purpose ecological soap. We seek to position our proposal in agroecological markets and/or stores and sell our products to households and restaurants.
